EVENTS IN DETAIL

SYMPOSIUM: 21ST CENTURY SKILLS FOR THE 21ST CENTURY PLANNER

November 22, 2017 in Toronto
November 24, 2017 in Vancouver

When disruption happens, it's often very fast and transforms the way we see and do things in the blink of an eye. As digitization and commoditization of information accelerates and the value of pure technical skill erodes, professions need to quickly reinvent themselves or risk becoming irrelevant.

Just as other professions have been forced to adapt to the digital age, so too must today's financial planners. Now more than ever, they need to develop skills that technology can't replace, such as managing relationships, demonstrating empathy, understanding how and why clients make the decisions they do and guiding them to the right choices. To be successful in this new world order, financial planning professionals will have to become trusted advisors, coaches and relationship managers, backed by the skills and qualifications required to thoroughly understand and motivate their clients.

This full day of CE will explore topics that turn this critical corner. A must-attend event for over 600 planners, certificants, and industry leaders in 2016, the 2017 CFP Professional Symposium promises to sell out again in both Toronto and Vancouver.

CELEBRATION OF THE PROFESSION RECEPTION & DINNER

November 21, 2017 in Toronto

The Celebration of the Profession Reception and Dinner gathers over 200 high-profile decision-makers in the financial services industry, regulators and representatives from all levels of government to celebrate outstanding contributors to the financial planning profession. This year's Dinner will be emceed by comedienne/speaker Jen Grant, who can be heard on CBC's "The Debaters" and hosts a TV special on The Comedy Network.

ETHICS BREAKFAST SESSION

November 22, 2017 in Toronto
November 24, 2017 in Vancouver

A strong professional standard, including universal adherence to a code of ethics, rules of conduct and practice standards, is a hallmark of any profession. It is a fundamental element of the commitment that clients' interests are being served ethically, competently and diligently. Moderated by Damienne Lebrun-Reid, FPSC's Director of Standards and Enforcement, this thought-provoking discussion will explore difficult ethical decisions and challenges that often occur in practice, based on cases Damienne has encountered in her role. A perennial Financial Planning Week favourite, this event sells out every year in record time. This year's Ethics Breakfast Session is expected to attract over 300 attendees.

We are proud to be presenting the following lineup of topics and speakers at this year's CFP Professional Symposium:

RESERVED FOR PLATINUM TITLE SPONSOR

AJAY AGRAWAL

The future of artificial intelligence

Ajay Agrawal, PhD, M.Eng./MBA, is the Peter Munk Professor of Entrepreneurship at the Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto, and founder of U of T's Creative Destruction Lab, which is home to the greatest concentration of AI-enabled companies on Earth. Featured on the cover of The Report on Business, the CDL is "paving the way for a more vibrant Canadian economy." Report on Business has also named Agrawal to its Power 50 list of the most influential Canadians to watch, calling him "a key contributor to Toronto's emergence as a world-class technology ecosystem".

A captivating conversation is taking place about the future of artificial intelligence and what it will/should mean for humanity. There are fascinating controversies where the world's leading experts disagree, such as artificial intelligence's future impact on the job market; if/when human-level AI will be developed; whether this will lead to an intelligence explosion; and whether this is something we should welcome or fear. Ajay will discuss the current and future state of AI and how its evolution may impact the future of professional advice.

NIKOLAS BADMINTON

Augmenting technology into your practice

Nikolas Badminton is a world-respected futurist speaker, author, and researcher. He wows audiences with keynote speeches on the impact of exponential technologies including Virtual, Augmented and Mixed Reality; Work Productivity; The Sharing Economy; Autonomous Transportation; Smart Cities; Education; The Future of AI integrated with Life and Business; and Predictions for humanity from 2017 to 2030, and beyond. Nikolas regularly appears on the BBC, CBC, CTV, Global News, VICE, and writes for Techcrunch, Huffington Post, Forbes, Venturebeat, Betakit, TechVibes, Business.com, and other media.

Technology is transforming financial services delivery and consumer demand. In his address, Nikolas will discuss the implications of technological advances on the planning practice and how Financial Planners can use technology to supplant and enhance their client engagements.

MARK WEBER

Between the plan and execution: the psychology of choice, decision-making and action in financial planning

Mark Weber, PhD, MA, MBA, is the Eyton Director of the Conrad Business, Entrepreneurship and Technology Centre at the University of Waterloo. Prior to his current role, Mark was the inaugural Director of the Graduate Diploma in Social Innovation at UW and served on the faculty of the Rotman School of Management and UTM at the University of Toronto for almost a decade. Mark's research on leadership, cooperation, negotiations, decision-making, and trust has been published in numerous academic journals.

One of the greatest obstacles to good financial planning is that it involves real people rather than the hypothetical rational agents of neoclassical economics and much of our training in finance and related fields. Working with real people is messy, but also reassuringly predictable in its messiness. The best financial planners help their clients overcome that messiness, using psychology to understand their clients and help them steer a course through perceptual biases and invisible planning handicaps to a brighter future. This session is about essentials. Why do people do what they do? Why do they choose what they choose? Why do some ideas stick with them and others fall away? Why do some simple plans work and sophisticated plans fail miserably? And most importantly, how can professional financial planners be more effective; how can they help?

CAROLYN MCCLANAHAN

Creating a new model for your business

In 2009, she was named a "Mover & Shaker" in the financial planning profession by Financial Planning Magazine.

Many Financial Planning professionals are reviewing their current business models to evolve with the changing needs of society. Aging populations, disclosure requirements and client retention are top of mind. In her address, Carolyn will discuss her journey from medicine into financial planning; the health implications of an aging society; and how she successfully transitioned her firm into a retainer model.
